Tax Equivalent Yield

- The Return of Capital (“ROC”) component on distributions acts as a tax deferral to a non-registered recipient and as a shield to pay taxes at the capital gains inclusion rate.
- Historically, the majority of Firm Capital Property Trust’s distributions have been comprised of ROC.
- Firm Capital Property Trust’s after-tax yield is 58% higher than a high yield bond with the same pre-tax distribution/ coupon rate when composed entirely of ROC and capital gains.

- Assumes $0.04333/unit monthly distribution and $6.05 trading price as of July 15, 2025.
- Assumes $6.05 for both sales price and initial cost basis. However, assumes cost basis ground to zero due to ROC received over time.
- Measures what an investor would have to earn on a fully taxable investment in order to match the yield of FCPT including distributions and sale of unit.

Fundamentals Driving Rental Rate Growth

1

HIGH BARRIERS TO HOMEOWNERSHIP

- High housing prices have limited home purchases;
- Higher credit standards for mortgage application process have limited home purchases;
- Income/Wage Limitation and Rise of debt balances have prolonged average rent duration out of necessity;
- Lack of downpayment for young families.
- According to Statistics Canada March 26, 2025 Report⁽¹⁾:
 - Homeowners under 35 years of age reported that at least part of their downpayment was a gift (18%) vs. those aged 35 to 44 (at 3%).

2

SHIFT IN CONSUMER BEHAVIOUR

- Many prefer the flexibility of renting, enabling both greater mobility and less maintenance;
- There is a continuing trend to delay “adult milestones”, such as getting married, having a child, and purchasing a home;
- Drop in immigration has resulted in a pull back from 2024 highs;
- According to Rentals.ca July 2025 Rent Report⁽²⁾:
 - After Nine Months of Decline, Rents in Canada Still 12% Higher than Three Years Ago
 - B.C. and Ontario Cities are Most Expensive while The Prairies are Most Affordable

3

RETAIL & INDUSTRIAL DEMAND DRIVERS

- Economic Recovery: Retail sales are rebounding as the economy recovers from the pandemic, with increased consumer spending and business activity;
- E-commerce Growth: The continued expansion of online shopping creates demand for logistics, distribution, and warehousing, as well as for digital customer service roles;
- Infrastructure Development: Investments in transportation and logistics infrastructure (e.g., highways, ports) can also drive industrial demand;
- The threat of tariffs and their potential to throttle the economy may have an impact on the retail sector.

4

GOVERNMENT INITIATIVES TO STIMULATE RETAIL & INDUSTRIAL DEMAND DRIVERS

- Access to Funding and Resources: Programs like the Canada Small Business Financing Program and the Venture Capital Catalyst Initiative will continue to improve access to funding for small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs);
- Trade and Investment: Strengthening international and regional relations through initiatives during Canada's G7 presidency in 2025;
- Investing in Infrastructure: Investing in clean energy and green shipping corridors, clean on-road and rail technologies, and a new high-speed passenger rail system in the Toronto-Ottawa-Montreal-Quebec City corridor;
- Skilled Trades Training & Retaining Talent Program: Investing in programs to equip tradespeople with the skills needed & Strengthening people-management programs.

2025 Outlook

- Going forward, the segments of the economy that influence the Trust's performance will be continued to be monitored and evaluated. Recent economic indicators suggest that inflationary pressures may be subsiding.
- Changes in U.S. trade policy, tariffs involving Canada and other countries, and increased geopolitical tensions have significantly influenced both the Canadian and global economic outlook during the first half of 2025.
- Canada's economy grew by 2.2% in the first quarter, mainly due to early exports to the US before tariffs took effect. Business investment rose thanks to strong spending on machinery and equipment, while government spending and housing declined. Despite falling consumer confidence, consumption still increased. RBC Economics forecasts Canadian growth at 1.5% for 2025 and 1.3% for 2026.
- Canadian CPI rose to 1.9% in June from 1.7% in May. Core CPI, excluding food and energy, stayed at 2.6%. Inflation is broadening, with 55% of CPI components seeing three-month annualized gains above 3%, the widest in 2025 so far. The Bank of Canada is concerned that upcoming tariffs may further boost these figures. Canada's June unemployment rate was 6.9%, nearly unchanged from May's 7.0%. Tariff concerns have dampened hiring, particularly in trade-related sectors like manufacturing, transportation, and warehousing. The unemployment rate may rise further this cycle.
- Since June 2024, the Bank of Canada has cut rates by a total of 225 basis points, including two cuts amounting to 50 basis points in early 2025. Amid ongoing uncertainty over US tariffs, the Bank has paused rate changes since March and is balancing a slowing economy against inflation risks from trade policy. The Governing Council will continue to evaluate how economic weakness and trade-related inflation pressures impact future decisions.
- Although previous interest rates impacted our cash flow, increased rental rates across most of our portfolio have offset this effect. Canadian industrial markets have cooled, but demand and renewal rates remain strong in our Ontario and Quebec properties, with existing rents still well below market levels. Demand in our convenience retail portfolio continues to rise, boosting cash flows. Despite the current environment, our mortgage interest rates remain highly competitive and consistent with portfolio averages.
- Over the past several quarters, inflationary pressures have eased, but the ongoing interest rate hikes since 2022 continue to impact the Trust. This has led to lower IFRS real estate valuations, down from a peak Net Asset Value (NAV) of $8.24 per unit in Q4 2021. In response to changing market conditions in 2023, the Trust increased capitalization rates across its retail and industrial properties. Nonetheless, growth in net operating income (NOI) has helped counterbalance these changes. For example, NAV increased slightly, from $7.82 per unit in Q1 2025 to $7.84 per unit by the end of Q2 2025.
- In 2024 and 2025, the Trust improved liquidity through increased mortgage refinancing. It has sufficient capital for operations and new projects through 2025. At Q2/2025, leverage stood at 49.9%, below the target range of 55–65%. The Trust has essentially completed its 2025 refinancings, with ongoing focus on managing finance costs.
- Management regularly reviews its portfolio and makes adjustments to maintain long-term stability. The Trust plans to prioritize acquisitions in the Canadian industrial and multi-residential sectors, while gradually decreasing its holdings in non-core retail assets when market conditions allow, as shown by transactions in 2023 and 2024. The Trust anticipates expanding its asset base primarily through acquisitions in 2025, though the pace of acquisitions is expected to be slower than in previous years.
- The Trust declared and approved monthly distributions in the amount of $0.0433 per Trust Unit for Unitholders of record on June 30, 2025 through to December 31, 2025.
